

LUCIANA DOS SANTOS DUARTE

EXPERIENCE

CERES – THE DUTCH RESEARCH SCHOOL FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

2020 – 2021

Designer and teaching assistant. I redesigned the website, and did the graphic design for the PhD courses, as well as its programming on Moodle. I create content for the website and its social media.

ENGINEERING SCHOOL – KENNEDY COLLEGE

2013– 2019

Lecturer at undergraduation in Production Engineering. Courses: (1) Planning and Design Product; (2) Product Development Process; (3) Ergonomics, Health and Safety at Work; (4) Factory Project and Industrial Installations; (5) 3D Modeling (CAD/CAM; SolidWorks; SketchUp); (6) Sustainability Management in Production Engineering.

I designed the courses and supervised students in final assignments. I conducted fieldwork activities in factories (small, medium and large size) and slums. My students developed products for vulnerable people.

UNITED STATES AGENCY FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT AND CLOUDBURST CONSULTANCY

2018

Consultancy to enable the final analysis of a carbon credit market project from USAID in the Amazon forest.

ETHICAL FASHION BRAZIL WEBSITE

2007 – 2021

From 2011 to 2015, the website was a private enterprise and I worked as consultant for SME fashion companies. Example: I developed the new layout and industrial installations for a shoes and bags factory. Then, with the economic crisis in Brazil, I changed its value for a non-profit platform based on its social media to support social projects. Since 2017, I coordinate a team of young programmers to develop the website. Currently, I work as a consultant for fashion entrepreneurs.

MARRE INFINITO – JEWELRY COMPANY

2013

Jewelry Design Coordinator. I managed the Design and Marketing teams, to develop 180 new products every 40 days, producing 600-700 products/day. I also managed the company's magazine, with models.

I started working in 2005, as a quality auditor for a Japanese technology car electrical wiring company, Sumidenso. It was a manual labor on the factory floor, to get money to go to the university.
